

Wanda McCallum

Wanda McCallum is one of Leader Development Institute's premier speakers and a trainer serving organizations throughout the US.

Wanda began her career as a software programmer after earning a bachelor's degree in computer science. After spending several years on Wall Street and consulting she began to pursue her master's degree in psychology in preparation for a career transition.

In 2002, Wanda began working in the mental health field, where she gained invaluable insight and practical experience and became a Licensed Professional Counselor. In 2007, Ms. McCallum opened her private practice. Yet, her passion for working with organizations drew her back to Corporate America, this time as a professional speaker, trainer and coach.

Today, Wanda inspires LDI audiences across the nation by providing the insight only attainable through a unique combination of both mental health and corporate experience. Her training sessions and seminars promote lasting change, as participants walk away with a new perspective and a fresh plan of action for success.
