August 8, 2018 - Secrets for Dealing with Difficult People

At some point in your career you will work with someone you find to be difficult. When we were in school, we each had a teacher whose class we hated to attend. We even have family members we don't get along with, so why wouldn't we work with someone we find difficult? IT'S INEVITABLE. Fear not! It doesn't have to be a death sentence

September 5, 2018 – Writing it Right (with a 1 or 2-day option)

This comprehensive one or two-day workshop delivers solid tools and techniques that will help you add clarity and power to all of your written documents. Choose the One Day training option for the Basics of Business Writing. Choose the Two-Day training option for a more comprehensive, "hands on" approach to all of your business writing needs with exercises to enhance the tools and techniques you learned in day one.

October 16, 2018 – The Hard Skills of Leadership

The biggest problem with most management courses is that they spend a lot of time on theory, but when the student leaves the course little changes their next day at work. This course takes a different approach, focusing exclusively on hard skills that will improve the manager's workday and the effectiveness of the team they supervise, with skills they can implement the next day after class.

You've proven your competence and your value. So why aren't you getting your point across? Look around you. The true leaders in your organization are the people who share a particular skill: the ability to communicate effectively. This Success Series Seminar focuses on analyzing barriers that inhibit the communication process. If you're committed to enhancing this skill, then this seminar is designed for you!
